GRIFFITH J. GRIFFITH sought to prove yesterday that he was insane at the time he shot his helpless wife, his insanity being due to the excessive use of alcoholic stimulants, covering a period of many years. Witnesses testified that defendant frequently boasted to them that he was an important public man and was in frequent demand at public dinners. It was shown that soon after the shooting Griffith was examined by several doctors as to his sanity, showing that his defense has been carefully planned by his lawyers. Much was made of the defendant's unjust suspicions of his wife. frequently boasted to them uses shown that soon after the shooting Griffith was examined by several doctors as the shooting Griffith was examined by several doctors as the shooting Griffith was made of the defendant's unjust suspicions of his wife.

GRIFFITH INVARIABLY DRANK ALONE FOR FEAR OF HIS BEING POISONED

TESTIMONY was offered in the Griffith trial, yesterday, to show that the defendant, as the result of the excessive use of intoxicants, would never drink with anybody at his club or other places, but invariably drank alone, and, according to the showing made, at frequent intervals. This fact was brought out by Griffith's attorneys as tending to prove his alleged insanity, the assumption being that Griffith would not drink with others for fear of being poisoned. ŧ.....
