In the first place it isn't half so important as you suppose; for the rost of gas len't half as tauch ax you think.

But suppose it is; how do it? Cook several things at once; no difficulty; when you want to, not when you must; there isn't any "must" with gas, it is all "can" and "want to." When you're baking, turn-off the gas a few minutes before you have done with it. Duzens of such little tricks.
